SANTA FE EMPLOYES ARE ADDRESSED BY KOUNS

General Manager of Big Rail- road Lauds Men Who Work for Great Public Carrier.
Ideals and Ambitions.

In a speech before the employees and families of the Santa Fe at their annual picnic at Vineyard park, C. W. Bowns, general manager in Topeka, said in part:

The area of our shop facilities embraces 119 acres, of which 25 acres are under roof.

During the year just closed you built and repaired 225 locomotives and 18,192 cars. Besides this, there were 14,219 miscellaneous pieces of work turned out.

You handled the accounts covering more than $1 billion gross tons of freight, more than eight million passengers, and over 47 million dollars worth of material supplies and fuel.

The interest of employees in this great road must be such that any of us who do not respect the employment we have cannot have much respect for ourselves.

In a recent speech to employees Frank Jarrell, our publicity agent, said, among other things: "A man who respects his job will take pride in his work, and put forth his best efforts to make good with his employer. His work will show merit. The employer will see results and appropriate reward for efficiency will be shown." The Santa Fe recognizes merit—it is surely necessary to particularize—you have all observed it.

Santa Fe employees are held up as models of loyalty to the company. You and I know they are, but we want to do more of those things which will do us good and be most valuable to our employers. Further along in his talk Mr. Jarrell said:

"The average man is ready in season and out of season to stand up for his family, his church, his political party and his dog. He thinks as I think, and as I hope you do, that the employee should be added to the list."

Let us turn these thoughts in our minds. We can make no mistake in attaching importance to every act which affects our employers. They are benefited, we will be benefited, if they are injured, we shall also suffer.

In behalf of the Santa Fe I beg to express the hope that every moment of this day will be filled with enjoyment for all who are here and serve to bring about increased faith in each other.
